RAMSEY SUES HIS WIFE FOR DIVORCE

Former Yeomen Organizer, Arrested in St. Paul, Says Wife Is Cruel.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Rev. James R. Ramsey, C. father of six children, recently arrested on a charge of violating the Mann act, preferred by Miss Olga Carlson, of Wilmot, S. D., charging the minister with being the father of her six months old baby. Filed suit for divorce in district court here today charging his wife with inhuman treatment.

The minister on July 22, his birth day, returned to St. Paul from Green Bay, Wis., where he is alleged to have been living with Miss Carlson, to attend a family reunion.

At the same time, Miss Carlson, in company with a brother and sister, came to this city and instituted proceedings against the minister. He was released after several days when Miss Carlson refused to sign a complaint and Ramsey agreed to support her child.

The reason for the suit, according to counsel for Ramsey, is to enable him to renege himself with his business associates.

Mrs. Ramsey declared she would not contest the action.

Ramsey was formerly organizer for the American Yeomen in Appleton. He spent several weeks here with the Carlson woman and left the Yeomen service shortly after.

NEW LONDON TENDERS HANSON WARM WELCOME

An audience of about 3,000 people heard Ole Hanson at New London Friday evening. He was met at Hortonville by 100 automobiles and escorted to the city amid a loud ovation of whistles and bells, which continued for five minutes.

The ex-mayor spoke for one hour and ten minutes to an audience seated in open air. Mayor Wendell introduced H. L. Sweet, another member of the speaking party, and he in turn introduced Mr. Hanson. He held the throne until the close of the speech in spite of storm threats.

He urged the New London people to cultivate a home town spirit, to settle their differences fairly and amiably and to cooperate for the general welfare.

Mr. Hanson returned here later in the evening and left for Clintonville late Saturday afternoon after delivering his address here. He goes to Chicago to speak before the Association of Commerce Wednesday and returns Friday to start a two months tour of Wisconsin cities and towns. He expects to appear at Hortonville one evening next week.

Robert Van Roy, James Van Ryzin and Frank Thelen Are Crash Victims.

INJURED WILL RECOVER

Automobile Hits Telephone Pole and Then Crashes Into Large Tree.

Three young men were killed and two others were injured at 12:50 o'clock this morning when an automobile driven by Robert Van Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Roy, Richmond street, crashed into a tree at the corner of Prospect and State streets, in front of the residence of Frank Zurbachner, 351 Prospect street.

The dead: Robert Van Roy, 19, died on way to St. Elizabeth hospital. His head was crushed and his body badly bruised.

James Van Ryzin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Ryzin, 348 Park street, died at St. Elizabeth hospital at 3:45 o'clock this morning. His skull was crushed and jaw broken.

Frank Thelen, 19, 811 Richmond street, died within a few minutes. His head was crushed to pulp.

The injured: Edward Zapp, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zapp, corner of State and Eighth streets, double fracture of right leg, above knee; face and head bruised.

George Weber, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weber, 1448 College ave., face and arm bruised.

Zapp is in St. Elizabeth hospital where his condition is not regarded as critical. Weber was able to go home after the accident and will probably not suffer serious consequences.

No Witnesses to Crash

There were no witnesses to the accident and the two surviving members of the party were not able to give a coherent account of the crash. It is admitted, however, that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Police officers believe that the car was going east on Prospect street, running near the car line, when it turned sharply to the right, crashing into a telephone pole which lies off the right front wheel. The car swerved slightly to the left, dodged a tree and then turned again to the right, crashing into a second tree about 12 feet from the telephone pole. The machine was driven across the sidewalk onto the Zachachner lawn.

Van Ryzin and Van Roy were found underneath the wreckage. Thelen was lying on the sidewalk near the tree while Zapp was restrained on the lawn. Weber remained in the car and climbed out without assistance when he recovered from a daze.

Started Out Early

Van Roy, Van Ryzin, Zapp and Weber left the Arcade bowling alley on Appleton street about 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, driving to the Van Ryzin home after which they went to Waverly beach where they remained about an hour. They then drove to Menasha where they attended a picnic and dance for about one and one half hours. Three girls were picked up there and taken to their homes in Menasha, the boys returning later to the park, only to find it dark. They then returned to Menasha where they found Thelen and Frank Krause, 444 Second avenue, two musicians, waiting for a car to take them to Appleton. They were picked up and brought here, the car arriving at the Arcade alley sometime after eleven o'clock.

One of the boys in the party suggested they go to the Terrace Gardens, on the upper river, but Krause refused to accompany them and went home. The other four boys drove to the gardens, arriving there shortly after midnight but found that the place was closed and dark. They turned around and drove back to Appleton and it was while on their way home that the accident occurred.

Weber Tells Story

Weber was the only one who would give any account of the death ride. He said he was sitting in the front seat with Van Roy, but had his face turned to the rear, talking to the three boys in the back seat, when the car suddenly struck something, probably the telephone pole. He was dazed but remained in the car. When he recovered sufficient consciousness to get out of his seat he found the car lying on its side on the Zachachner lawn. He opened the door and climbed out, finding Van Ryzin pinned underneath the left rear wheel of the machine. Thelen lying on the sidewalk and Zapp on the lawn. He did not see Van Roy. He remained near the car until the bodies were removed and then went home.

Weber does not remember anything after the first collision and does not recall crashing into the tree. Zapp was unable to give an account of his experience this morning.

The first reports came to the police from the Krause and Zachachner
